I am attaching the screen prints of us attempting to set up the picked up from FedEx.com! As you can see from those screen prints that the same problem that brought about your involvement is now occurring again.

Would you please, please, please let me know in writing exactly what we are doing wrong so that we can correct the problem and actually shipped this computer to you before our second year of owning this computer has come and gone and thereby our opportunity to potentially get it fixed by Costco concierge service has expired.

And when I say "exactly" I mean just that. The excruciatingly step by step details of what we need to accomplish actually succeeding at shipping this broken HP laptop to you folks so that it actually gets fixed.

Thank you in advance for doing what I have asked you to do.

With All Sincerity,
Robert Colaco
